SAFETY AND SECURITY TOWN HALL

Houston, March 5, 2010 – Next week, UHDPS will provide an invaluable opportunity to educate the campus community about their presence on campus and the various services which they provide at the University of Houston.

At the Safety and Security Town Hall on Tuesday, March 9th from 5-7 pm at the Rockwell Pavilion, students, faculty and staff can attend an event which will inform them about the DPS (Police Department, Security Division, Fire Safety and Parking Enforcement).

“Safety on campus is everyone’s concern,” said Chief Malcolm Davis. “On behalf of the Department of Public Safety, I invite everyone to join us at the Town Hall Meeting on Safety and Security.”

Chief Davis will deliver his State of Safety on Campus Address, explaining the measures that UHPD take to ensure the safety and wellbeing of everyone on campus, as well as sharing information regarding the safety of the campus currently.

A panel will be present along with Chief Davis to answer questions regarding safety and security from interested attendees, and each table will also provide a station in which surveys will be conducted.

“You will be able to learn how members of the campus community can work with members of the Department of Public Safety to keep the campus a safe place,” explained Chief.

Chief Davis will also provide demonstrations regarding ways to prevent crime, as well as access to the police – including their website, Twitter and Facebook.

Videos will also be shown on fire safety, as well as “A Day in the Life” films which illustrate the daily duties and procedures of the safety and security personnel on campus.
