

Posted 09/02/10

The Center for Public History Announces New Web Resources

The Center for Public History is pleased to announce new elements of the program website:

- CPH Bibliography. CPH has assembled a bibliography of works by faculty, students, and affiliates of the Center for Public History and the History Department about the Houston area, Texas, and a broad economic and political region including adjacent states and Mexico. Citations are accessible online and in .pdf form available for download. On the CPH homepage, follow the Bibliography of Works links on the right-hand side.
- Webcasts from Energy Capitals Conference held at UH on May 21-22, 2010. From the CPH Homepage, follow the link on the right hand side to Research Projects, then select the Energy Capitals Website, then select Schedule and Video; or follow this link.
- CPH e-Newsletter. The CPH Spring 2010 e-Newsletter, and all future issues, will be archived on the CPH website. From the CPH Homepage, follow the link on the right hand side to Spring 2010 Newsletter; or follow this link.