

Posted 09/28/10

UH Graduate Research Colloquium Announced for Fall 2010

The University of Houston's Department of History is announcing the Fall 2010 edition of its Graduate Student Research Colloquium. The Colloquium is jointly sponsored by the UH History Department and the local graduate chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, the international history honor society. The Colloquium offers a forum in which some of the Department's MA and PhD candidates can discuss their current research with fellow students and faculty. The Department also welcomes the participation of undergraduate history majors and, indeed, of the general public in these scheduled sessions.

The schedule for this semester's Research Colloquium follows. Unless otherwise announced, sessions this semester will be held on the UH Central Campus in the History Department in Agnes Arnold Hall and will run from 3 to 4:30 on Thursday afternoons.

September 30: STUDIES IN EUROPEAN MILITARY HISTORY

- Dan LeClair: "Boxer's Fuze, Shrapnel's Shell, and the End of Ancien Regime Warfare"
- Hunter Lunquist: "The Voyages of John Hawkins"
- Commentator: T B A

October 28: AFRICAN-AMERICAN HISTORY IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

- Andrew Pegoda: "Our Endurance is Exhausted: Tensions Explode at the University of Houston in the 1960s"
- Brittany Hancock: "Marcus Garvey's 'The Black Star Line': A Feasible Business Enterprise"
- Commentator: Dr. Linda Reed

November 18: SOUTH TEXAS AND BORDERLANDS HISTORY

- Michela Noble: "La Cruz Blanca: Women Nurses, Revolution, and the Border"
- Tony Matamoros: "Selling the Rio Grande Valley: Architecture and Promotional Literature in the Rio Grande Valley, 1900-1940"
- Commentator: Dr. Monica Perales