Dr. Joy Kinard

Superintendent of the Charles Young Buffalo Soldiers National Monument

The African American Experience in Our National Parks

This year marks the centennial celebration of the National Park Service. Dr. Kinard will remind us of the historic connections African Americans have played in the creation of the National Park Service at Yosemite National Park and Sequoia Kings Canyon. Dr. Kinard will explore the works of the Buffalo Soldiers as Americas first Park Rangers, share research on the integration of segregated camping facilities, and the integration of the role as Park Ranger's within the National Park Service during the 1960's
