

Sexuality and Queer Theory

WOST 3360

TTH 1-2:30

Spring 2017

Dr. Sarah Luna

This course examines the meanings and theories surrounding sexual practices and identities that are seen by dominant perspectives as deviant or perverse. We will also look at the political and economic contexts in which these meanings and theories have arisen. We will engage both "queer theory" and peoples' theories about their practices to push toward thinking in new ways about identity, kinship, love, desire, community, and intimacy.
