

FALL 2008
BROWN
BAG SEMINARS

UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON
Center for PUBLICPOLICY

The 2008 Election: A Preview

Richard W. Murray
University of Houston
Department of Political Science
rmurray@uh.edu

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 2008
12:15 PM
UC Tejas Room (Rm. 238)

Please join Dr. Richard Murray, one of Texas's leading political analyst, as he gives you a sneak-peak into the 2008 election.

Dr. Murray has taught at the University of Houston since 1966 and is currently the Bob Lanier Professor of Public Policy in the UH Department of Political Science and Director of Surveying for the UH Center for Public Policy.

His academic interests are in Houston and Texas politics, focusing on campaigns and elections, political parties and interest groups and public opinion. Professor Murray has written extensively in these areas, while teaching courses ranging from graduate seminars to introductory American Government.

Dr. Murray occasionally conducts polls for local media, and local governments and is a political analyst for Channel 13, KTRK Television.

For a listing of upcoming brown bag seminar topics or additional information, please visit us at www.uh.edu/cpp/brownbag.htm
or contact simberman@uh.edu
University of Houston Center for Public Policy
713.743.3970