COMPOSITION

Rob Smith, Division Chair

Bachelor of Music in Composition

All undergraduate composition applicants are required to audition on an applied instrument or voice and interview with the composition faculty. It is strongly encouraged that applicants take the theory placement exam that is offered on all audition days.

In addition, students should submit a portfolio with their application that contains:

1. Scores and/or recordings of up to three representative original compositions
2. A list of all compositions to date (include instrumentation, durations and dates)

Students with no prior experience composing, but who have been studying music performance on an instrument or voice, may still apply.

For more information, please contact the Composition Division Chair, Dr. Rob Smith, at robsmith@uh.edu or 713-743-3163.
Bachelor of Arts in Music

The guitar program focuses on techniques such as improvisation, chord melody and rhythm accompaniment. Use of Electric or Archtop guitar is recommended; equipment such as amplifier and chords are provided.

Audition preparation:
- Performance of at least one solo piece (a jazz chord melody arrangement)
- Knowledge of chords and scales:
  - Triads
  - Seventh and sixth chords
  - Major and minor scales
- Sight reading and knowledge of musical fundamentals
  - Chord symbol recognition and execution

Guitarists are usually encouraged to seek a bachelor of arts in music. We have found that this degree plan is well suited to guitar students. The focus of the guitar program is primarily jazz-based. This is because the jazz orchestra is the ensemble in which guitarists must perform. Although this is the case, some classical techniques and repertoire are covered to enhance the student’s musicianship.

Organ

Robert Bates, Division Chair

Bachelor of Music in Organ Performance
Bachelor of Music with Elective Studies in Teacher Certification (organ concentration) or Music Marketing
Bachelor of Arts in Music
Bachelor of Music in Composition with organ as a secondary instrument

Since organ lessons usually begin later than those for the piano, the audition for the undergraduate in organ performance is based more on evidence of general keyboard skills than on the use of the pedals. This may be shown by demonstrating:

- the ability to play piano compositions at the level of the Clementi Sonatinas and Bach two-part Inventions.
- evidence of good sight-reading skills at the piano.

Preferably, the candidate should also be able to perform organ compositions at the difficulty level of the chorale preludes from J. S. Bach’s Orgelbüchlein (“The Little Organ Book”). The Potential for rapid development as an organ student is, however, more important than evidence of a fully formed organ technique. Before choosing specific pieces for the audition, candidates are encouraged to speak directly with Dr. Robert Bates, Professor of Organ at 713.743.3193.
Prepared Literature
All undergraduate applicants should demonstrate their skills in the following areas: Snare Drum, Timpani, and Mallet Percussion (Marimba and/or Xylophone). Applicants must prepare two (2) Snare Drum Solos, one in concert style and one in rudimental style; two Keyboard solos, one using 2 mallets and one using 4 mallets (but only if the applicant has already studied 4 mallet playing); and one timpani piece. Because of time constraints in the auditions, additional playing of drum set is not recommended. The following literature recommendations are provided only as samples of appropriate literature for an undergraduate audition. Any piece is acceptable so long as it adequately demonstrates your technical and musical abilities on the instrument:

- Snare Drum
  - Concert Solo – Etude from Anthony Cirone’s Portraits in Rhythm (particularly Etude 5, 12, 15, 2, 37, and 44)
  - Rudimental Solo – John Pratt: 14 Contest Solos (any)

- Keyboard
  - 2 Mallet Solo – Masterpieces for Marimba or a good single solo
  - 4 Mallet Solo – Alice Gomez: Rain Dance or Jungle Walk; Mitchel Peters: Yellow After the Rain; Rich O’Meara: Restless; Paul Smadbeck: Etudes or Rhythm Song

- Timpani
  - Solo – The Solo Timpanist (Vic Firth) Etude from Fundamental method for Timpani (Mitchell Peters), Modern Method for Timpani (Saul Goodman), or a similar text; or Concert Solo by Mitchell Peters (Rondino, Scherzo, Tribal Serenade, Primal Mood)

Regardless of the literature you ultimately select to play, do not try to impress us by playing a difficult piece if you cannot play it correctly. It is much better to select a piece that is within your grasp and perform it well.

Sight-Reading
In addition to the prepared literature, the audition will include sight-reading on Snare Drum and Marimba (2 mallet technique only). The sight-reading portion of the audition is a very important dimension of your audition. Significant deficiencies in sight-reading in these areas often preclude otherwise skilled percussionists from admission into the program!

Timpani Tuning
In addition to the above, you will be asked to match pitches and tune simple intervals on the timpani. Don’t worry! Most incoming students have not had comprehensive ear training prior to entering the Moores School of Music. This portion of the audition is simply to evaluate your current level of aural skills on timpani.

Each undergraduate applicant is allotted a total audition time of 20 minutes.

Other requirements & recommendations for you audition
- Compile a repertoire list: this is a list of all the solos and percussion ensembles you have played.
- Compile a list of awards and honors you have received, both in music and in other areas.
- Include a transcript from your school, or at least provide your current grade point average, class ranking, and SAT or ACT scores if you have taken them.

All percussion instruments you may need will be provided; you may bring your own snare drum, but please do not bring keyboard instruments or timpani. Sticks and mallets will not be provided.

Please provide a copy of your music for the panel hearing you play.

- Individuals not fully prepared or in compliance with all application and audition requirements will be ineligible for acceptance in voice for the desired entrance semester.
- Studio placement and level of university study is determined by the voice faculty at the time of your audition. - At your audition, you must submit a complete list of vocal selections learned and memorized in college-level study. This list will include your audition selections and all other jury selections from past semesters.
- At your audition, you are expected to demonstrate proficiency reflective of your previous college study. You may be asked to make up deficiencies in technique and/or repertoire by extra semesters of voice study for credit based on this audition performance and supporting materials.
- All vocal performance majors must pass a “barrier” examination after the sophomore year of study in order to qualify for the Bachelor of Music in Vocal Performance degree track. Transferring vocal performance majors with four or more semesters of college study must demonstrate readiness for junior level applied voice study at your audition. You may be required to take one or more semesters of applied voice at the Moores School before the voice faculty determines that you are ready for the “barrier”.
