Happy New Year!

Let me start by saying congratulations to our CWEP students for their major accomplishments during the Fall Semester: That well deserved A, the flawless research projects, the “paper”, etc. You all are a great group of dedicated individuals. Your enthusiasm is contagious.

I would like to take this time out to thank each and every one of you for choosing a career in Child Welfare. This is definitely one of the most challenging professions. As MSW students, you are gaining the knowledge and expertise necessary to be all that you can be.

We know that children are the most vulnerable citizens in the state and it is up to us to ensure that they are safe and have permanency. We must continue to seek permanent homes for children who are in temporary homes. It is our duty to serve as advocates. They deserve to receive appropriate and adequate services in order to grow up and become functional adults. Today’s children are tomorrow’s leaders.

Much success to each of you during the Spring 2013 Semester!

“If we don't stand up for children, then we don't stand for much.”

1. What is your current position with CWEP or CPS? How long have you been working in this position? What prior experience(s) did you bring with you to this position?

I am currently a Program Administrator in the Conservatorship Program in Harris County. I have been in this position for five years. I started my career with CPS in 1980 as an investigative worker in a specialized physical abuse unit working cases of children 0-7. Since that time my experience has been in conservatorship as a supervisor, and a program director. I have also been a CWEP field instructor with the University of Houston and I have served as a field instructor for BSW interns at Prairie View A&M.

2. What have been the greatest rewards working in the CWEP or CPS family?

Educating and developing staff with the skills and knowledge necessary to enhance their ability to improve outcomes for families and children by, placing and keeping siblings together, returning children to their parents, placing with a relative/fictive kin or thru adoption. Every child deserves a “forever family” because as an agency we don’t make good parents; we help them becoming one.

3. What advice do you have for our CWEP students?

I would encourage students to be proactive and take responsibility as well as an interest in learning the skills and knowledge necessary in order to become successful in CPS. Students should not hesitate to always ask questions if they are not sure about something. By getting their MSW and CPS experience, students are already on their path to success as they will be seen as an expert in child protection. Lastly, students need to have a passion for the work to help the families and children that we work with to achieve positive outcomes in their lives.
What is your current job position (if you are working at CPS)? Or, tell us about yourself.

I am a first year advanced standing clinical track student with a specialization in Health Disparities as well as a recipient of the CWEP stipend. I graduated from Texas Southern University in 2008 where I received a BA in Social Work. After graduating from the social work program, I knew children and families was where I would love to dedicate my time. So I joined an agency that provided foster care and adoption to children whom were in the child welfare system. Here is where I found much reward for the time I provided assisting children and families.

I am also a mother of three wonderful boys. They have been very supportive in my decision to devote my time to those in need as well as returning to school in pursuit of obtaining my MSW. From time to time the boys have volunteered their time where needed as well.

What motivated you to join the MSW program?

I always knew I wanted to go back to obtain my MSW. Getting my family situated so I could give my full attention to the program and class work was my biggest obstacle, because I needed to make sure home was taken care of first. Working with children and families I knew I needed to go back ASAP also so I could provide the needed therapeutic services to my clients. Providing them with the needed therapeutic services would give them the opportunity to acquire and enhance the skills necessary to establish and maintain healthy relationships. So I began my research of MSW programs and found UH-GCSW had just what I was looking for.
The Story of Medicare: A Timeline

Do you know how Medicare began? Do you know the milestones that contributed to the present day Medicare policies?

This is a seven minute video overview of the history of Medicare. It is definitely worth watching by all ages because we will all be using Medicare someday....

The report, Child Maltreatment 2011, from The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services’ Administration for Children and Family reveals that there is a steady decline in number of victims who suffer from maltreatment for a fifth consecutive year. Although this is true, a decline does not mean an abomination of the issue. The government must continue coordinating efforts with federal, state and local agencies to focus on child maltreatment prevention.

I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal."
I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the table of brotherhood.

I have a dream that one day even the state of Mississippi, a state sweltering with the heat of injustice, sweltering with the heat of oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice.

I have a dream that my four little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. I have a dream today.
I have a dream that one day, down in Alabama, with its vicious racists, with its governor having his lips dripping with the words of interposition and nullification; one day right there in Alabama, little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers.

I have a dream today. I have a dream that one day every valley shall be exalted, every hill and mountain shall be made low, the rough places will be made plain, and the crooked places will be made straight, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together. This is our hope. This is the faith that I go back to the South with. With this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a stone of hope. With this faith we will be able to transform the jangling discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood. With this faith we will be able to work together, to pray together, to struggle together, to go to jail together, to stand up for freedom together, knowing that we will be free one day. This will be the day when all of God's children will be able to sing with a new meaning, "My country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty, of thee I sing. Land where my fathers died, land of the pilgrim's pride, from every mountainside, let freedom ring."

And if America is to be a great nation this must become true. So let freedom ring from the prodigious hilltops of New Hampshire. Let freedom ring from the mighty mountains of New York. Let freedom ring from the heightening Alleghenies of Pennsylvania! Let freedom ring from the snowcapped Rockies of Colorado! Let freedom ring from the curvaceous slopes of California! But not only that; let freedom ring from Stone Mountain of Georgia! Let freedom ring from Lookout Mountain of Tennessee! Let freedom ring from every hill and molehill of Mississippi. From every mountainside, let freedom ring.

And when this happens, when we allow freedom to ring, when we let it ring from every village and every hamlet, from every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics, will be able to join hands and sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual, "Free at last! free at last! thank God Almighty, we are free at last!"
