JOB OPPORTUNITY POSTING

Job Title: Associate Dean for Research

Employer/Agency: University of South Florida

Job Description: The College of Behavioral and Community Sciences, consisting of the Departments of Child and Family Studies, Communication Sciences and Disorders, Criminology, Mental Health Law and Policy, Rehabilitation and Mental Health Counseling, the School of Aging Studies, and the School of Social Work, is seeking an individual with strong research and leadership skills to serve in the position of Associate Dean for Research (ADR). The ADR will hold a 12-month, tenured position as an Associate or Full Professor depending on qualifications of the candidate. The Associate Dean for Research will be an active member of the Dean's Leadership team and will work collaboratively with individual faculty members, departments, schools, and centers. The ADR will provide leadership to advance the college's research and scholarship mission and will implement programs supporting externally funded research and faculty development activities that enhance research. The College's external funding for the year 2011-12 exceeded $26M. The ADR will coordinate the college's research activities with those of the University's Division of Sponsored Research and Office of Research and Innovation, and other USF colleges. In addition, the ADR will coordinate collaborative research and interdisciplinary efforts with local, state, national and international groups. The position will initially be fully funded with the expectation that the successful candidate will generate a portion of his or her salary through external funding by the end of their third year. Applications will be reviewed as they arrive and the position will remain open until filled.

Qualifications: Earned doctorate in fields related to behavioral health services research or other disciplines represented in the college (e.g., communication sciences and disorders, aging studies, psychology, epidemiology, economics, biostatistics, anthropology, nursing, social work, criminology, education, medicine, etc.). Successful academic experience as a faculty member appropriate for appointment as a tenured full or associate professor in one of the academic units in college

Preferred Qualifications

Exemplary record of research, scholarship; expertise in interdisciplinary research; substantial experience with grant and contract funded research, particularly at the federal level and ideally with diverse sources (e.g., federal, foundation, state, and private); successful experience with faculty and student development in research, including mentoring and technical assistance; extensive networking experience with granting agencies;

successful experience in promoting a culture that nurtures diverse forms of inquiry/scholarship; successful experience in promoting collaborative and programmatic research across units or disciplines in community-engaged research; demonstrated record of organizational leadership in developing, managing, and sustaining a comprehensive program for funded research; successful experience initiating and coordinating collaborative research efforts involving multiple academic units, and/or local, state, national and international groups; experience in pre- and post-award processes relating to funded research, including research compliance; demonstrated commitment to diversity; record of administrative experience.
