

Job Title	Senior Faculty
Employer/ Agency	Rutgers University
Job Description	Rutgers University School of Social Work seeks a dynamic senior faculty leader to support our productive faculty in continued expansion of the School's innovative programs, centers and institutes. We seek a highly productive scholar, an entrepreneurial and innovative thinker, and an engaged colleague, with a strong commitment to public education and to social work research. The Rutgers School of Social Work is the fourth largest in the United States, offering the BASW, MSW, DSW and Ph.D. degrees to over 1500 students across three campuses. The Camden, Newark and main New Brunswick campuses are located in dynamic areas of the Garden State, offering easy access to major eastern cities and Washington, DC, and great quality of life. New Jersey is one of the most diverse states, and Rutgers one of the most diverse student bodies, in the country. Our MSW program is delivered in several innovative ways, including traditional campus, intensive weekend, online and blended options. Certificates in Aging, Addictions, and Violence Against Women and Children expand our curricular reach. Our DSW program prepares senior social work practitioners for leadership in clinical and management arenas. Our Ph.D. program prepares students for careers in higher education, research and advanced positions in social policy arenas. Rutgers is a major research institution and our faculty enjoy significant research ties with numerous, nationally known, university centers and institutes. The recent integration of New Jersey's medical schools and programs into Rutgers has created a rich environment for collaboration. Rutgers is a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU) a federation of 62 leading research universities in the United States and Canada and of the CIC (Committee on Institutional Cooperation), an academic consortium of Big 10 universities that collectively engage in over 8.4 billion dollars in funded research each year. The School of Social Work is a highly collegial, productive and motivated faculty. The School's current centers and institutes include the Institute for Families, a multi-million dollar partnership with New Jersey's Departments of Human Services and Children and Families, the Center on Violence Against Women and Children, the Center for Non-Profit Management, the Center for International Social Work, the Huamin Research Center and the Center for Gambling Studies. The School offers an open and exciting environment for development of specialized research to practice centers.
Qualifications	The successful candidate will enjoy working in a positive, energetic environment, be highly motivated, interested in collegial relationships with faculty and doctoral students at the School and with other disciplines, and committed to advancing the reputation of the School. While the search is open to candidates with varied research foci, we are particularly interested in the following areas: Child Welfare, Social Work Management, and Inter-professional Health, or other research areas that complement existing faculty research clusters. The hire will be made at the Professorial or Distinguished Professorial level, at a competitive salary; additional resources, commensurate with endowed positions, will also be available.
