

Research Associate or Research Full Professor

The School of Social Work at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites nominations and applications for one non-tenure-track position at the rank of Research Associate or Research Full Professor. This is a twelve month faculty position that will start July 1, 2015. Candidates will join a community of active scholars and are expected to have the ability to individually and collaboratively provide research design and methodological support to contract and grant applications, publish research findings; infuse their classroom teaching with knowledge based on the latest and strongest evidence; and provide service to the State of North Carolina, the nation, as well as in international settings. We seek applicants with a demonstrated capacity to conduct rigorous research focused on informing, designing, developing, and evaluating social interventions and social policies that strengthen individuals, families and communities. We are particularly interested in candidates who have expertise in research design and methodology as well as in statistical methods, such as structural equation modeling, hierarchical linear modeling, propensity score analysis, and other advanced techniques. Willingness to share expertise in these areas with doctoral students and other faculty is a prime expectation.

Applicants must possess a doctoral degree in social work or a related field, including economics, sociology, or biostatistics. The successful applicant is expected to have demonstrated strong commitments to education, research, and teaching. Preference will be given to applicants who, in addition to a PhD degree, hold a MSW degree and/or have experience in research activities related to social work. Further, preference will be given to candidates who have demonstrated the capacity to secure extramural funding to support their research or to those who have collaborated in research teams with substantial extramural funding. Salary is competitive and will be commensurate with experience.

Candidates should submit a curriculum vita, a letter outlining teaching and research expertise, a current writing sample, and the names of four to six persons who can provide professional references (if selected for interview, four letters of reference are required). Applications should be submitted to: <http://unc.peopleadmin.com/postings/50523> . Candidates should be prepared to provide supporting documentation, including publications and teaching evaluations.

Address correspondence to:
Jack M. Richman, Ph.D., Dean and Professor
UNC-Chapel Hill School of Social Work
325 Pittsboro Street, Suite 302
Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3550

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Please address questions to the search committee co-chairs Dr. Gary Cuddeback (cuddeback@schsr.unc.edu) and Dr. Natasha Bowen (nbowen@email.unc.edu).

The School of Social Work offers MSW and PhD degrees. Dual degrees are offered with Law, Public Health, Public Administration, and Divinity (with Duke University). The faculty members of the School of Social Work have strong collaborative relationships with many campus units such as the Schools of Education, Government, Law, Medicine, Nursing, Public Health, and the Department of City and Regional Planning as well as University Centers and Institutes such as the Cecil G. Sheps Center for Health Services Research, the Carolina Population Center, the Center for Developmental Sciences, Frank Porter Graham Child Development Institute, and the Institute on Aging. We also maintain dynamic relationships with community agencies, state and federal government, and research groups in the Research Triangle Park and across the U.S. To learn more about the School of Social Work, please visit our home page at <http://ssw.unc.edu>.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer and welcomes all to apply regardless of race, color, gender, national origin, age, religion, genetic information, sexual orientation, gender identity or gender expression. We also encourage protected veterans and individuals with disabilities to apply.