Justification(s) for Adding/Revising Course for Core

1k. Other (use field below)

State the rationale
This is a course on the human condition that looks at different ways that people have experienced the world. The study of Japan since 1600 will expand students' knowledge of the human condition and human cultures, especially in relation to behaviors, ideas, and values expressed in works of human imagination and thought. The class explores history from multiple perspectives, analyze historical evidence, craft historical arguments. Students will learn to write clearly and concisely. These skills help us understand a multitude of human experiences in a complex world.

Justification - if "other" selected above:
Course meets requirements for category IV. LANGUAGE, PHILOSOPHY & CULTURE.

Course Description and Requirements
This is a survey course on the general history of modern Japan. The course will start with Japan from Tokugawa period and Meiji Reformation; then continue to look into Japan in WWII and the postwar period up to the present. The emphasis of the course will be on the major political, social, and economic transformations of the time. It reviews the cultural changes in an age when Japan faced the challenge of the West and examines the rise of militarism in Japan and the major transformation of Japan in the postwar period. It also examines the remained issues of the war and the challenges Japan is facing in its politics and economy in contemporary time. The course is a combination of lectures, readings, discussions, presentations, and films. Students will be responsible for each week’s reading and attendance of lectures. Students are also expected to participate in class discussion. The course requires the student to take two exams and write one reading report (3-4 pages) and one paper (5-7 pages each in length) based on the reading of the course materials.

Reading Report: (Due on Feb. 23 before the class)
One reading report (3–4 pages) will be in a Q-A form. The report questions are posted on Blackboard Learning. Any late report will be penalized as a late paper (see lateness policy).

Paper: (Paper due on Wednesday, 4/22, before the class)
A paper (5–7 pages) should be written based on your analytical and interpretative reading of the texts. The paper should be argumentative rather than descriptive. It should engage the ideas presented in one or more of the readings or some ideas we discuss in class. The main sources of your paper should come from the course reading materials. The suggested paper topics have been posted on Blackboard Learning. You do not need to provide a hardcopy but must submit your electronic copy via my email: xcong@uh.edu before the class on the due day. The paper must be in the Microsoft word readable form and must be confirmed by professor’s reply message (if you do not received the confirmation by the day after you turn in, you need to contact me via email). You will get your graded paper (with my comment) back on the final examination day. Otherwise, see lateness policy.

Format of the report/paper:
- Double space, typed, one-inch margin on all sides, 12-point letter, Times New Roman for your font, half-inch paragraph indentation. Please check your grammar and spelling!
- Put your name and your section number on the top of the first page only! Please do not use cover page. Please staple your report in the upper left-hand corner. Do not use paper clips, folders, etc.

When using citations or direct paraphrasing from the appointed book, cite them with a parenthetical note (e.g. Fukuzawa, Autobiography, p. 71). If you cite or paraphrase from other sources which are included in our syllabus, please use author’s name, the title of book or article, and page number (e.g. Hane, “The Textile Factory Workers,” pp. 173-181).

Lateness Policy
All papers and reports should be submitted on the due day before the class. A late paper will be penalized one-half of a grade down (e.g. from A to A-) if it submitted within three days after the due day. Any paper submitted after three days of the due day will be penalized a half grade down each day. No paper will be accepted the day before the final examination day. Under special circumstances (see below), student must provide valid proof (doctor’s notes, police report, funeral announcement, etc.) in order to request an extension.

Definition of Special Circumstance:
Special circumstances are the situation of which a student has a serious illness, gets injury in an accident, hospitalized, or having a death in the immediate family member (immediate family member means your parents, your spouse, and your children). In a special circumstance, a student can request for an extension of his/her paper if the student is able to provide a valid proof (doctor’s notes, police report, funeral announcement, etc.).

Quizzes and Absence
There will be quizzes each week and the quizzes will be given at the beginning of the class. There is NO make-up quiz. It is your responsibility to maintain your attendance record. If you are late for attendance check or quiz at the beginning of class, you should make sure your attendance is recorded after the class.

Each absence will affect your participation one grade down (e. g. from A to B). If you are absent due to a special circumstance (see above), you must provide valid proof (see above) to avoid the grade penalty. Missing more classes will definitely affect your final grade!
Discussion Section and Class Participation:
There will be discussion section almost for each week. Students are required to finish the reading of the week before attending to that week’s discussion section. The study questions for that week’s reading are available on Blackboard Learning. The study questions will be used as a guideline for reading and for discussion. Discussion section is very important for students to understand the reading and will help students grasp the key points of the reading. Many study questions may appear in examinations.

Students should bring textbooks or/and reading materials of the week to their class discussion. It is important to talk (!) in class and exchange opinions with your fellow students. I encourage everyone to put forth questions related to the lectures and readings. No activity in classroom discussion will receive a low participation grade regardless of the student’s attendance record. On the other hand, the active performance in class discussion will receive award for his/her participation at the end of semester.

Policy on cell-phone
Please turn off cellular phones and other equipment that might disturb lecture or class discussion. Computers and ipads are allowed in classroom but it must be used for learning purpose. If someone’s cell phone or other equipment disturbs the class, she/he may be asked to leave the classroom. His/her leave is counted as one absence.
