Reception: 5:30pm
Screening: 6pm

The Dawn Is Too Far is an acclaimed documentary that explores the lives of Iranian political prisoners and the enduring impact of exile, memory, and resistance. Directed by Professor Emeritus Persis Karim, a poet, scholar, and public intellectual, the film brings attention to overlooked histories of state violence and the resilience of those who endured it. Following the screening, Professor Karim will lead a discussion on the film and its broader cultural and political context.
