Abraham Verghese's novel, Cutting for Stone, is #1 on the Independent Booksellers paperback fiction list. He is also known for his work with AIDS patients and his emphasis on "Imagining the Patient's Experience." In his memoirs, In My Country and The Tennis Partner, he imagines and empathizes with his patients' experience in all its ethical and medical complexity.

Dr. Verghese is Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine at the Stanford University School of Medicine and the Senior Associate Chair of the Department of Internal Medicine. He is a founding director of the Center for Medical Humanities & Ethics at the University of Texas Health Science Center in San Antonio, Texas.
