

HIST 4396 / SPAN 6397
Mexico City: An Interdisciplinary Experience

Mexico City is one of the oldest, most populous, and fascinating cities of the world. Capital city of the Aztecs, it is now the capital city of Mexico. Archaeologists, art historians, historians, literary scholars, sociologists, political scientists and many others have brought their perspectives to bear in studying this amazing place. We will examine the culture and history of the city from different perspectives and students will conduct individual research projects focusing on the city.

The highlight of the course will be spending the week of Spring Break in Mexico City for a mini-study abroad experience, in a faculty led research trip.

Prof. Susan Kellogg (History)
Prof. Anadeli Bencomo (Hispanic Studies)
Prof. Rex Koontz (Art)