

Full Professor, Tenure Track, in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders at the University of Houston

Full professor sought for an exciting opportunity to develop a clinical doctoral program at the University of Houston, a CAA-accredited program in speech-language pathology. The University of Houston is uniquely positioned to have a world class clinical doctorate program, and seeks a leader. The ideal candidate will demonstrate vision, administrative skills, and networking abilities. Responsibilities will include: establishing contracts with the many hospitals in the Texas Medical Center and environs; developing clinical doctoral program curriculum; determining necessary resources; teaching in area of interest. This 12-month, full-time, tenure track position will begin in Fall, 2014.

The University of Houston, a Carnegie designated Tier One public research university, is centrally located in the vibrant international city of Houston, Texas. The fourth largest city in the nation, Houston is a dynamic cultural and business center. The University of Houston is located with convenient access to downtown and within four miles of the nationally and internationally recognized Texas Medical Center, with more than 30 medical facilities affording numerous opportunities for collaboration. Each year we educate over 39,000 students and are one of the most culturally diverse campuses in the U.S. The Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders (www.class.uh.edu/comd) has approximately 200 undergraduate and 75 graduate students and offers B.A. and B.S. degrees in Communication Sciences and Disorders, a post-baccalaureate leveling program and an M.A. degree in Speech-Language Pathology. Our on-campus clinic provides services to the greater Houston area across the age span.

Send applications to: Dr. Monica McHenry (mmchenry@uh.edu) by Nov. 30, 2013. Review of applications will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. Applications must include: letter of interest with stated qualifications for the position, a summary of administrative accomplishments highlighting abilities relevant to the posted position, teaching interests, curriculum vitae, and the names of three references. Transcripts from all educational institutions will be requested from final candidates.

The University of Houston is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action employer. Minorities, women, veterans, and persons with disability are encouraged to apply.