

EU Security Policy and Transatlantic Relations

Presented by:

Fran Burwell
Vice President and Director
Transatlantic Relations, the Atlantic Council

Monday, April 21, 11:30-1:45
in M106 (McElhinney Hall)

Fran Burwell's areas of expertise include US-EU relations and the development of the European Union's foreign and defense policies, and a range of transatlantic economic and political issues. She is the principal author or rapporteur of several Atlantic Council publications including Transatlantic Leadership for a New Global Economy; Transatlantic Transformation: Building a New NATO-EU Security Architecture; Law and the Lone Superpower: Rebuilding a Transatlantic Consensus on International Law; and The Post-9/11 Partnership: Transatlantic Cooperation Against Terrorism. She is the co-editor (with Ivo H. Daalder) of The United States and Europe in the Global Arena.

Prior to joining the Council, Burwell was executive director of the Center for International and Security Studies at the University of Maryland, and also served as founding executive director of Women In International Security. Her webpage can be found here.

This will be the last CICS event this semester, so make sure to attend! We look forward to seeing you there!
