

UNIVERSITY of HOUSTON

Sponsored by: UH Energy & UH Center for Public History

Global Energy, Development, and Sustainability (GEDS)

Presents

Oil in the 'Mix' of Insurgency: Unmasking the Resurgence of Boko Haram Attacks in Nigeria's Northeast

Dr. Philip Ademola Olayoku

Dr. Philip Ademola Olayoku is a specialist on rural violence and conflict resolution in the West African context. He publishes on the use of political inclusion models, the role of non-state policing activities, ethnic profiling around conflict in the media, and Sino-Nigerian relations. Dr. Olayoku has received numerous prestigious awards, including The African Studies Presidential Fellow Award (2017), The Harry Frank Guggenheim Young Africa Scholar Award (2015), and the French Institute for Research in Africa Fellowship (2014).

When: Monday, Nov 20, 2017 @ 5:30 PM

Location: University of Houston, SEC 101