

Soviet Industrialization in Visual Media

Over the past century, industrial enterprises have produced images of their own. Photos of machines, workspaces, landscapes, and workers documented the emergence of industrial society in detail. Some photographers took pictures to criticize the new industrial order for its hard and dangerous work. Others used photography to glorify industrial success and progress.

The presentation will discuss a collection of photographs documenting the Donbas, one of the most industrialized regions in the late Russian Empire and Soviet Union, which has lately become one of the hottest areas of Russia's war on Ukraine.

THURSDAY October 27, 1–2.30 pm

Honors Commons, M.D. Anderson Library

Volodymyr Kulikov is a Visiting Professor at the University of Texas at Austin. Originally from Ukraine, he has previously taught at the Karazin Kharkiv National University, Ukrainian Catholic University in Lviv, and Central European University in Budapest and Vienna. He is the author of Enterprises and Society: Company Towns of the Donbas and Dnieper Regions between 1870 and 1917 (Karazin Kharkiv National University Press, 2019).

