A discussion on Convict Leasing and the “Sugar Land 95”

Wednesday, February 27 @ 4PM

Room 210, Agnes Arnold Hall, University of Houston

Featuring:

Mr. Reginald Moore, founder of The Convict Leasing and Labor Project, Sugar Land, Texas

Mr. Sam Collins, National Trust for Historic Preservation Texas Historical Commission

Ms. Brooke A. Lewis, staff writer, Houston Chronicle

Chaired by Dr. David McNally, Cullen Distinguished Professor of History and Business

The discovery of the remains of 95 black inmates at the Imperial Farm Prison in Sugar Land has drawn attention to the history of convict leasing in Texas and the Greater Houston Area. Our speakers will examine this history and the current struggle to honor and memorialize the lives and deaths of these 95 men.

Sponsored by the Cullen Chair in History and Business, Department of History, and the Center for Public History at University of Houston
