

DEPARTMENT OF
HISPANIC STUDIES

SPAN 6397 Narratives of Violence in Mexico

SPRING 2015

Prof. Anadeli Bencomo

TH 5:30-8:30 pm

This class explores different narrative discourses about the Narcoviolence in Mexico in the 21st century. After reviewing some of the precedent works, we will focus on analyzing the most salient trends on the representation of recent violence in Mexico.

The selection of readings, films, and other artistic expressions, includes non-fiction and fiction discourses depicting a convulsed context that has elicited diverse interpretations dealing with the demand of portraying this critical reality.