

South Asia to Houston: Conversations and Connections Around Gender-Based Violence

Join us for an engaged conversation with those who serve transnational South Asian communities and those who write about the structures that perpetuate gender-based violence in all its forms. How it is represented and how it is being responded to? What are the concerns specific to communities in Houston?

Special Guests

Lakshmy Parameswaran of Daya, Sehba Sarwar of Voices Breaking Boundaries, Dr. Sucheta Choudhuri, UH Downtown, Dr. Shreerekha Subramanian, UH Clear Lake, and many others.

Keynote Speaker

Dr. Elora Chowdhury, University of Massachusetts, Boston
Author of Transnationalism Reversed: Women Organizing Against Gender Violence in Bangladesh.

Date

Friday, February 21, 2014
9 AM to 4 PM – Lunch and refreshments provided
*Register for all or only part of the day's events

Location

Rockwell Pavilion, MD Anderson Library
University of Houston, Main Campus

Event Sponsors

UH Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, UH Women's Resource Center, UH India Studies Program and the Department of Comparative Cultural Studies, UH Clearlake Women's Studies, UH Friends of Women's Studies, Daya, Voices Breaking Boundaries, and the El Paso Corporation Lecture Series

There is no cost to participate in the colloquium. For more details and to REGISTER for this event, contact wgss@uh.edu or (713) 743-3214.

*Full colloquium participants can earn Continuing Education Units (CEUs) at a cost of $10

