How can you prepare for your professional future?

Are you currently asking yourself how you can prepare TODAY for your professional FUTURE? JOIN the Professional Development Program designed by the Osgood Center for International Studies.

In this program, you will explore career choices in international affairs. You will engage in structured conversations and seminars with seasoned professionals who will provide relevant advice and reflect about their career paths as former diplomats, public officers, scholars, and foreign affairs specialists, so you can learn from their experiences.

For a successful career exploration during 4 weeks, you will:

- REFLECT about your personal purpose as you listen to leading professionals sharing their unique stories
- REFINE your vision and develop a sense of self-direction as you ask questions about professional choices and roles
- REVISIT your goals as the program speakers debunk some common myths about job alternatives and professional decisions

You can maximize your time in DC! At the end of the Professional Development Program you extend your stay to JOIN the Summer Symposium on Foreign Policy to get access to a specialized lecture series and interesting events.
