

PAST and PRESENT

RACE and PLACE

“The Past and Present of Race and Place in Houston, Texas” explores the history of race in the Bayou City and investigates what that history has to tell us about the city’s present and future — its schools, neighborhoods, places of worship, cultural landscape, labor force and built environment. The conference aims to create a dialogue concerning the ways historical and contemporary scholarship can inform each other to the benefit of the city.

Feb. 26–27, 2013 • Rice University • Click for info: <http://hrc.rice.edu/raceandplace>

RICE

Sponsors: Department of History, Humanities Research Center, Kinder Institute for Urban Research and Baker Institute for Public Policy

Historic photos courtesy of Paul Hester and the Houston Public Library