JOB OPPORTUNITY POSTING

Job Title: Assistant Professor

Employer/Agency: Loyola University

Job Description: Loyola University Chicago's School of Social Work invites applications for a position as a tenure-track Assistant Professor with a starting date of August 15, 2013.

Founded in 1914 Loyola University Chicago's School of Social Work educates students to become leaders in the profession, within a curriculum focused in clinical, community, and social justice issues. Two advanced domains of study are available: Clinical Social Work and Leadership and Development in the Social Services. Specializations are available in Health, Mental Health, Child and Family and Schools. In addition, there are two sub-specializations: (1) Migration Studies, a series of courses and fieldwork that develops expertise in migration and international practice and (2) Gero-Social Work. As the largest clinical program in the Midwest, Loyola's Social Work faculty are engaged in cutting-edge research, scholarship and teaching-including our unique international programs and training Institutes in Aging, Migration and Advanced Practice.

Qualifications: Candidate must have a PhD in Social Work or closely related field.

- Candidate must have the ability to teach courses in clinical practice AND in an additional substantive area of research, policy, or human behavior.
- Preference will be given for candidates who have the ability to teach qualitative research.
- Preference will be given to candidate with certification or licensure in Substance Use/Abuse.
- Candidate must demonstrate an active teaching and research agenda with potential for publication and substantial scholarly impact.
- Candidate must have the ability to teach core courses consistent with the School's mission in the Bachelor, Master's and Doctoral Programs.
- Candidate must be willing and able to teach across campuses: Carthage in Kenosha, WI and Lake Shore and Water Tower in Chicago, IL.

The School of Social Work is interested in candidates who will contribute significantly to advancing professional practice knowledge and who embody a commitment to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching, research, and service, and who have the communication skills and cross-cultural abilities to maximize effective collaboration with a diverse campus and external colleagues.
