JOB OPPORTUNITY POSTING

Job Title: Assistant Professor

Employer/Agency: Northeastern Illinois University

Job Description: Northeastern Illinois University Department of Social Work invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position starting August 2013. Responsibilities include teaching a variety of undergraduate Social Work courses with a primary focus on social work practice and human behavior and the social environment courses.

Qualifications: The successful candidates will have a Ph.D. in Social Work, an MSW from a CSWE-accredited program and demonstrate a commitment to teaching, scholarship, and service. Candidates who expect to teach practice courses should also have at least two years post-MSW practice experience. Preference will be given to candidates with teaching experience at the BSW level, MSW leadership experience, and a commitment to teaching excellence (in both traditional and on-line formats) and scholarship. The successful candidate will need to address in the application their abilities to work within a culturally diverse environment and to prepare students to work effectively in a world of increasing diversity. The BSW Program at Northeastern Illinois University is fully accredited by CSWE.
