

Requirements to meet the FLO

Trauma Education Project

Requirements and Description – Students must complete all four of the following components while enrolled at the GCSW:

Practicum Component – Trauma Fellows are required to successfully complete Field III and IV. Students will interview with practicum sites that offer the opportunity to work with traumatized individuals in one-on-one therapeutic settings. Opportunities for group work may be available to students, however it is not a requirement of the TEP FLO.

Community Engagement – Required partnerships with GCSW practicum sites that offer opportunities to work with clients one-on-one and receive supervision of clinical/therapeutic skills.

Training – A requirement of the TEP is that all Trauma Fellows successfully complete a 10-hour, online course in Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT) prior to beginning the summer course. Each student is responsible for payment of the $35 fee to enroll in this course through the Medical University of South Carolina. <https://tfcbt2.musc.edu/> Additionally, students are required to attend community trainings via webinars and workshops that can vary from semester to semester.

Coursework – Trauma Fellows are required to successfully complete the summer course (June) entitled: Core Concepts in Trauma Treatment of Children and Adolescents. This course is taught over a 3-week period and focuses on working with traumatized child and adolescent clients from diverse cultures and experiencing individual and community traumas.
