SUBJECT: ACCT 2331 CLEP Exam

DATE: July 25, 2008

---

The Bauer College supports the request from Patrick Daniel in LAS to replace the Principles of Accounting CLEP exam with the Financial Accounting CLEP. Essentially this is a name change rather than a change in content, and has the support of the Accounting Department designated representative for course equivalencies, Dr. George Gamble. Dr. Gamble has approved the awarding of 3 hours credit for Accounting 2331 based on the CLEP Financial Accounting exam score of 55.

This information needs to be reflected in the catalog.

Please let me know if you have follow up questions.

Re: Accounting 2331 CLEP Examination Credit

---

CLEP will no longer offer the Principles of Accounting CLEP exam. It has been replaced with the CLEP Financial Accounting exam. Dr. Gamble has approved the awarding of 3 hours credit for Accounting 2331 based on the CLEP Financial Accounting exam score of 55.

Please inform the appropriate governing body.

RE: CLEP Principles of Accounting

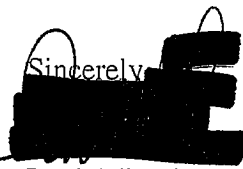

Dear Dr. Gamble,

University Testing Services (UTS) awards College Level Examination Program (CLEP) examination credit for Principles of Accounting.

Currently with a score of 55 on the Principles of Accounting CLEP exam, a student receives 3 credit hours for Accounting 2331. Starting July 1, 2007, CLEP will no longer offer the Principles of Accounting credit exam. It will be replaced with the Financial Accounting exam.

Attached for your review, is a copy of the CLEP Financial Accounting exam study guide. Please advise accordingly.

Sincerely,

Patrick Daniel
Executive Director,
Learning and Assessment Services
