Syllabus

List the student learning outcomes for the course (Statements of what students will know and be able to do as a result of taking this course. See appended hints for constructing these statements):

1. Students will have an understanding of the study of religion as an interdisciplinary academic field. 2. Students will develop understanding of Hindu practices through critical analysis of the sacred texts. 3. Students will further their understanding of the religions by focusing further writing on ethnographic study and historical analysis. 4. Writing produced throughout the course will be developed through an instructor and university writing resource services feedback process involving discussion of invention, assistance with organization, opportunity for draft revisions and editing, and finally presentation of writings via class group and/or instructor discussion.

Component Area for which the course is being proposed (check one):

Communication

American History

Mathematics

Government/Political

Science

Language, Philosophy, & Culture

Social & Behavioral Science

Creative Arts

WID Component Area Option

Life & Physical Sciences

Competency areas addressed by the course (refer to appended chart for competencies that are required and optional in each component area):

Critical Thinking

Teamwork

Communication Skills

Social Responsibility

Empirical & Quantitative Skills

Personal Responsibility

Because we will be assessing student learning outcomes across multiple core courses, assessments assigned in your course must include assessments of the core competencies. For each competency checked above, indicated the specific course assignment(s) which, when completed by students, will provide evidence of the competency. Provide detailed information, such as copies of the paper or project assignment, copies of individual test items, etc. A single assignment may be used to provide data for multiple competencies.

Critical Thinking:

- Students will have an understanding of the study of religion as an interdisciplinary academic field.
- Students will develop understanding of Hindu and Jain practices through critical analysis of the sacred texts.
- Students will further their understanding of the religions by focusing further writing on ethnographic study and historical analysis.
- Writing produced throughout the course will be developed through an instructor and university writing resource services feedback process involving discussion of invention, assistance with organization, opportunity for draft revisions and editing, and finally presentation of writings via class group and/or instructor discussion.

A three to four page paper will be required that displays

- Use of evidence, experience, critical reason, and coherent argumentation will be the standards upon which all of the written work will be graded, and will be modeled and encouraged within the course itself.

Communication Skills:

Based on their readings and Previews, students will effectively communicate findings in the same assessment.

Empirical & Quantitative Skills:

Teamwork:

The class will function effectively as a team as we work towards possible understandings of our assigned texts.

*not required in this category

Social Responsibility:

Each of the readings in this course is intended to provoke thought and discussion of social responsibility, including this assignment.

Personal Responsibility:

Each of the readings in this course is intended to provoke thought and discussion of personal responsibility, including this assignment.

Will the syllabus vary across multiple section of the course? Yes No

If yes, list the assignments that will be constant across sections:

Inclusion in the core is contingent upon the course being offered and taught at least once every other academic year. Courses will be reviewed for renewal every 5 years.

The department understands that instructors will be expected to provide student work and to participate in university-wide assessments of student work. This could include, but may not be limited to, designing instruments such as rubrics, and scoring work by students in this or other courses. In addition, instructors of core courses may be asked to include brief assessment activities in their course.

Course Synopsis

This class is an introduction to some of the diverse practices encompassed by term "Hinduism"; the interlinked elements of scripture/ sacred texts, spirituality, aesthetics, history, religious community, ritual, philosophy, society and culture. While we will be reading some scripture, the Bhagavad-gita and excerpts from the Ramayana, the emphasis in this course will be on the study of lived tradition or practice in Hinduism.

Learning Outcomes

1. Students will have an understanding of the study of religion as an interdisciplinary academic field.
2. Students will develop understanding of Hindu practices through critical analysis of the sacred texts.
3. Students will further their understanding of the religions by focusing further writing on ethnographic study and historical analysis.
4. Writing produced throughout the course will be developed through an instructor and university writing resource services feedback process involving discussion of invention, assistance with organization, opportunity for draft revisions and editing, and finally presentation of writings via class group and/or instructor discussion.

Writing In the Disciplines

This is writing-intensive content course which fulfills a CORE requirement for a Writing in the Disciplines course (WID) and it can be counted towards minor requirements. As such, its educational objectives include:

- Read published articles informed by religious studies in order to gain knowledge of discipline specific debates and ways of writing.
- Demonstrate through your writing familiarity with key concepts and arguments developed by scholars of religion and use them to develop your own analyses and arguments through complex reasoning and critical thinking.
- Develop writing skills specific to religious studies by working through all stages of the writing process including: invention, organization, drafting, revision, editing, and presentation.
- Prepare a research paper with documentation in accordance with disciplinary standards.
- Clearly communicate your ideas in writing with organization and technical proficiency.

Grading

Midterm exam 25%

Quizzes 25%

Final 3000-word paper 25%

Participation Grade 25%

Your participation grade is based on your attendance, promptness and class discussion/presentations.

A missed class without prior permission from instructor = 10% deduction

Please do not come late to class. If you are tardy more than 10 minutes = 5% deduction

Three times late to class equal a missed class = 10% deduction

Writing Assignment

Religious studies is a deeply interdisciplinary field. Writing projects will require use of theories and methods drawn from many other departments, programs, and curricula of study. Various modes of investigation are possible—literary, historical, cultural, sociological, anthropological, etc. One significant aspect of these approaches is their tendency to contextualize religious phenomena (beliefs, rituals, etc). Every religion arises within a particular environment, which inevitably affects the development of the religion. When you explore a religion's context, seemingly mystifying aspects of the tradition often become more comprehensible (source: http://www.unc.edu/depts/wcweb/handouts/religious_studies.html).

Tips for Writing the Religion Paper

- Consider your sources.
When reading for Religion - especially when reading sources found on the Web - note whether you are using materials from experts in the practice of religion (gurus, theologians, priests, nuns), or respected scholars, employed by reputable universities. While both sources might be useful to your research, it's important to understand the source, its purpose, and its intended audience.
- Consider the current conversation.
Consulting recent editions of new work by living scholars is a good way to determine which arguments are current and salient.
- Read footnotes and endnotes.
Often footnotes and endnotes will lead you to other sources. Moreover, good scholarly editions of religious texts have substantive footnotes that will help you to better understand the passages you are working with.
- Consider your audience.
If you are writing for readers who are not experts in the field, be sure to acquaint them with all relevant background material. Always write clearly and concisely, so that your paper is a pleasure to read.
- Don't let quotations speak for themselves.
In religion, passages taken out of context can be misread. Also, because so much dispute exists over meaning, you need to make sure that you explain to your reader what a passage means in terms of your argument, and why it is relevant. As in all papers, you need to provide background for passages before quoting them, and you need to analyze the passage after.
- Remember: religious texts require special citation methods.
When citing the Bible, for instance, you need to cite Book, Chapter, and Verse. Familiarize yourself with the appropriate citation methods.

Final Paper:

There is one 3000-word writing assignment. You may pick a topic related to the course that interests you. However, you must email me your proposed topic before you start working on your paper. This assignment will be graded very strictly. To receive an A papers should be:

- at least 3000 words (normal 12 pt. font)
- properly referenced and include a bibliography
- carefully and clearly written
 - include transition sentences
 - include a clear and stated thesis or argument
 - include a discussion of that thesis or argument
 - include footnoted evidence from readings and other sources that support the paper's thesis and argument
 - include an introduction and conclusion
 - use proper grammar and spelling (spell- and grammar- check on computers makes this much easier now).
- This paper also must demonstrate through incorporation of one or more writing style (Comparative essays, Critical readings of religious texts, Ethnographic studies, Historical analyses) that you understand how your topic fits within the historical development and branches of Hinduism: its relationship to the Hindu context. If this part of the paper is missing, the highest grade you will be able to earn is a 'C'.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

The University of Houston is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for eligible students with disabilities, including students who have learning disabilities, health impairments, psychiatric disabilities, and/or other disabilities.

Students who have disabilities are encouraged to register with the Center for Students with Disabilities (CSD), Justin Dart, Jr. Center for Students with Disabilities (713-743-5400-voice, 713-749-1527- TTY) as early as possible in their academic careers. Specific documentation from qualified health care providers will be required.

Documentation requirements for disability eligibility may be obtained by contacting CSD or by downloading this information from the CSD web site at www.uh.edu/csd.

Students whose disabilities may require some type of accommodations, including course load modification, exam modification, or other accommodations should contact CSD and discuss the availability of services such as readers, interpreters, or note-takers and the process for requesting accommodations. CSD will recommend accommodations as early as possible each semester. Appropriate accommodations are determined on an individual basis through a team approach involving CSD, the student, the Academic Accommodations Evaluation Committee, and at times instructors, as appropriate. A student who believes that an instructor has unfairly denied an accommodation request may appeal to the chair of the department, the Dean of the college, and the Provost, in that order.

Services are provided to student athletes who have disabilities at the Athletics/Alumni Center, in addition to the main CSD Office. CSD staff may be reached at the Athletics Department at 713-743-9254.

Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) conducts psychological and learning disability assessments. There may be a waiting list and/or a charge for these services. CAPS is located in the Student Service Center, Room 226, 713-743-5454.

The University of Houston strives to maintain an accessible campus for students with disabilities via ramps, curb cuts, free inner-campus accessible parking, Braille signs, TTYs, etc. Attendant Care Services are available through the University Health Center by calling 713-743-5112.

Students who identify barrier problems should bring those to the attention of the Section 04/ADA Coordinator at the Office of Affirmative Action at 713-743-8835, and/or CSS
