PREAMBLE

This Constitution is written to complement and be consistent with the University of Houston Constitution of the Faculty Senate, Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, and the Board of Regents. In matters that conflict, the University of Houston Constitution of the Faculty Senate and the policies and procedures of the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and the Board of Regents are the ruling documents.

The University Policy Hierarchy. The first level of policy resides with the Board of Regents Bylaws and Policies and thus take precedence over other system or university policy. The next tier is the System Administrative Memoranda (SAMs) which specifies rules and regulations to implement the Board of Regents policies as well as establish uniform rules, regulations, and procedures that are not addressed in the Board policies. The next tier is the Manual of Policies and Procedures (MAPPs) that ensure compliance and best practice with higher authority and directives. The MAPPs may also provide procedures for policies. All copies of the policies listed above are found on the UH website and by clicking on the link embedded in the title below.

Principles. Shared governance is a collective commitment of the faculty, administration, students, and staff of the College of Education to work cooperatively, together with other University constituencies, to achieve a common vision of excellence for the College. Successful shared governance requires an active partnership at all levels of the enterprise, from individual programs to the overall College, to provide a basis for joint participation in developing priorities and formulating policy recommendations. Effective enactment of shared governance depends on mutual trust, shared confidence, and on-going communication between faculty, administration, students, and staff, informed by an appreciation of their interdependent roles and responsibilities.

Faculty Role in Shared Governance. The faculty provides excellence in research, teaching, service, and community engagement that determines the quality and reputation of the University. The faculty has a major role in developing recommendations for academic policies, establishing performance standards, and in protecting academic freedom. The faculty has a primary responsibility to develop degree programs and monitor curricular matters. Recommendations about appointments, promotion, tenure, and post-tenure review are a central faculty responsibility. The faculty has significant input in the formulation of budget priorities, including compensation policies. The faculty has a major role in the selection and review of administrators at all levels of the University. The faculty assists in setting goals to improve the quality of campus life, the surrounding community and the national academic standing of the institution.
